FOREWORD

We have finished our Senior Year
And it seems, as I recall,
These years were those of joy and love.
As we look at the school and see
The faculty with whom we have worked
And the standards that Bellevue has attained,
It has been far too short a time.
We know we are better for having had
Our past triumphs, trials, and associations
Through which we will grow to be
Finer and nobler men and women.

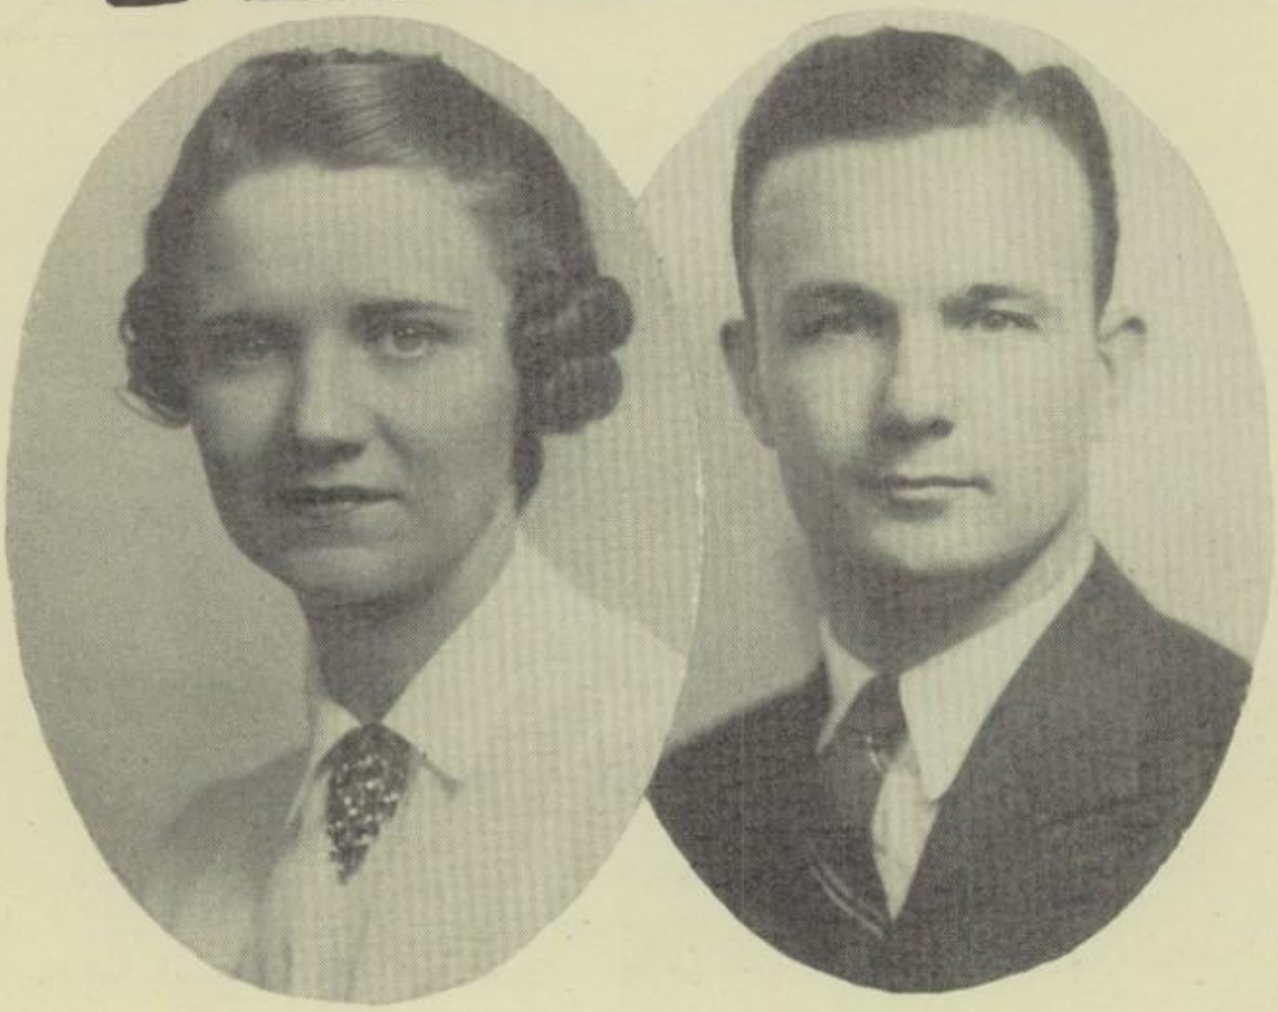
DEDICATION



We, the Senior Class of 1941 through cooperation have produced this, the 1941 edition of the "Bellevue Owl" under the sponsorship of Miss Corinne Smith and Mr. Joe Torrence. They have been untiring in their effort to promote better understanding and higher standards in all phases of our student activities. Therefore, we the class of 1941 dedicate with lasting memories this, the fourth edition of the "Bellevue Owl", to Miss Corinne Smith and Mr. Torrence.

FAREWELL

We now are starting out upon the road of life,
Where narrow curves and strong temptations bar the way;
We're just beginning now the battles and the strife,
But we shall conquer every evil, come what may.

Of all the tasks that we have had throughout the years,
We've never shirked nor failed to keep a promise made;
And when we step forth in this world of doubt and fears,
The lessons learned in high school days will never fade.

We hate to leave our school, our friends and teachers dear,
Where we have labored hard and tried to do our best;
But in our memory they'll live for us quite near,
Until we meet on that Commencement Day at last.

CLASS HISTORY

"Columbus"! this word has a place in everyone's heart. Would you not believe that the gallant senior class of 1941 has played just as important part in the making of its school history as did Columbus in the founding of America? If you do not believe my words, then gather around and I will point out some of the frontiers this class has conquered.

In the autumn of 1937 an intelligent and enthusiastic group of sixty boys and girls started their first year working for a higher goal in life. The class chose Elsie Hulan as their president, and Miss Corinne Smith as their sponsor. This was a prosperous year. The class organized a very encouraging girls' basketball team. Through the cooperation of its members, the class won second place in Stunt Night.

At the beginning of the fall term of 1938, the class again chose Miss Corinne Smith as their sponsor and Betty Ann Baird as the president. Many of the members gained places on the main basketball squad. The girls' team went to the semi-finals of T.S.S.A.A. basketball tournament of the Eighth District in which Sara Sexton, a member of this class, held main position as guard. The girls of this class won the class tournament. Soon this year had rolled by.

By 1939 the class could proudly call themselves Juniors. They chose Margaret Phillips as their president and Earl Horner as vice-president. Miss Smith and Mr. Torrence were placed as sponsors of this class and with their worthy assistance the class presented "The Dixie Minstrels". The money secured was used to entertain the Seniors by taking them to Cedar Forest National Park near Lebanon, Tennessee in May.

Many of the members of this class held main positions on the basketball and football teams. During this year the class won first place in a health program in which all classes participated. A lollar was awarded by Dr. Lentz in recognition of this stunt. With the passing of examinations, the activities of the class for the year were ended.

Finally September 6, 1940, rolled around. The class had proudly won the title of "Seniors". There was never a class that was more proud to boast of that title. The class roll had now dropped to forty members. They chose Sybil Beckham, as president, Juanita Sullivan, as vice-president, George Steele, as secretary and "Dad" Smith, as treasurer. Miss Smith and Mr. Torrence were chosen as sponsors. At a later meeting the class decided to publish the fourth edition of the "Bellevue Owl". The following were selected to fill important positions on the annual staff. Fred Rauschenberger, editor-in-chief, Betty Baird, assistant editor, J. B. Swafford, business manager, Albert Mitchell, assistant business manager.

This year the girls' basketball team, seven members of which belonged to this class, was the runner-up in the T.S.S.A.A. tournament. Again our group captured the girls trophy in the class tournament.

In May, 1941, the class presented the senior play. It proved a great success The proceeds were left as a gift to the school.

The class has now reached the day of departure. They are now leaving the old familiar haunts of their high school days and are setting sail on a new sea of life. If the class by its efforts has added to the glory of Bellevue High School, it can only toss the torch to those who follow; and hope that they may continue what this class has begun.

In the future may this history bring pleasant memories to the Class of 1941.

Eileen Crick, Historian.

PROPHECY

It has been fifteen years since our graduation from dear old Bellevue High. During this period of time many changes have taken place. Since I am a Red Cross Nurse and travel a great deal, I am lucky to run across my old schoolmates.

I was sent across the waters to help in the war zone. On my train trip to New York, I looked up in the front of the car and there sat the former Rena Parker and "Dad" Smith with two little redheaded boys. They were vacationing in New York. They told me that Gordon Allen and George Steele had joined the army. When the conductor came to get the tickets, I thought he looked familiar and just then he recognized "Dad". It was Earl Horner. We talked about our good times at Bellevue. When we reached New York, we parted.

I sailed for London that evening. Just as I walked aboard someone called my name, I turned around and there stood "Dot" Maynard and Link O'Brien, newly-weds on their honeymoon. Dot told me that Hazel was also a nurse and that maybe I would see her in London. I went down for dinner and the girl that waited on me was none other than Eileen Crick. She and Mildred Covington were both working on that boat. About that time a girl began to sing. I looked up and imagine my surprise on seeing Margaret Phillips! She hadn't been working there very long but she had made a hit with everyone. The next day as I was swimming in the pool on the boat, a little girl walked up and wanted me to play with her. I consented and after we had finished, she wanted me to go to meet her mother and father. When we reached their stateroom, there sat Juanita Sullivan and Billy Sadler. I was delighted to see them. "Pee Wee" told me that she had seen Sara Sexton about a week before and that she was married and so very, very happy.

After several days of traveling, we reached London. It was a dreadful sight. That night we were attacked by the Germans. Everyone at my boarding place headed for an underground shelter. Several women were hurt. A Red Cross ambulance came to get them. The driver was "Toar" Ashburn. I rode to the hospital with him. When we arrived at the hospital, I saw Hazel Reasonover, who had been over there for about two months. We talked for a long time. She told me that Ernest Redd had gone to South America as an explorer, and that Sybil Beckham and Fred Rauchenberger were going to be married the next month. Hazel and I decided that we would room together.

A reporter came to us to get some information on the air raid. He was Robert Martin. I read in a newspaper that he left, that an American girl was engaged to an Englishman. The girl was Glenna Garner. While sightseeing I met Billie Meek, who had come abroad to study music. She surprised me by saying that Louise Maynard and Charline Stephens were nurses over in another hospital.

While I was on duty the next day several boys, who were injured slightly, were brought in the hospital. Two of them were my old schoolmates, Hugh David Walton and Milton Austin. I learned from them that J. B. Swafford was married and had three beautiful little girls and that Elton Boone was a volunteer pilot. Reading my home newspaper, I saw that Betty Baird had become a famous editor and that Charley Knott, now president of an airplane factory, was engaged to his secretary, Jewel Carney.

About six months later Hazel and I decided to go home by plane for two weeks vacation. On the Clipper, we found that the stewardess was Christine Owen. She said that Marlene Mingle was also a stewardess for the Eastern Airlines. We stopped in Chicago for an hour and walked through the lobby of the Gold Coast Hotel. There sat Mildred Rilling and her husband. She informed me that Cora Sue Grimes was married and living in New York. When we arrived home, we met Joyce Redden on the street. She and Jean Johnson were teaching school and Jean was teaching history to Mr. Torrence's little girl. In a business paper from Nashville, I read that Elizabeth Allen and Elizabeth Prince were stenographers.

Our two weeks stay passed rapidly and we headed back for London to resume our work. The war was soon over and Hazel and I came home with our husbands, wounded soldiers, whom we had nursed back to health.

Strange how war changes things!

Bellevue's boys' basketball team had a very successful season. They won ten and lost seven. The members of the team that will be lost by graduation are: Paul Smith, Elton Boone, Gordon Allen, Link O'Brien and George Steele. The schedule and scores of the games were as follows:

Bellevue	34	Joelton	13
Bellevue	20	Litton	15
Bellevue	21	Cumberland	29
Bellevue	24	T. I. S.	17
Bellevue	29	Du Pont	31

Second Row: Winkler, E. Pennington, Ashburn, Johnson, Steele, Collier,
Third Row: Boone, Vaughn, Carter, O'Brien, Allen,
Fourth Row: Smith, Simmons, Gassaway, and Coach Hackman.
Members not in picture were J. C. Carlton, Ed. Malugen

In 1940 Bellevue High School had one of its best seasons in football. The football team did not lose a game in the interscholastic league until they played Litton. The team's record is shown by the following schedule and scores:

Bellevue	13	Anticoh	0
Bellevue	32	White Bluff	0
Bellevue	20	Hillsboro	0
Bellevue	25	Donelson	0
Bellevue	19	Cumberland	0
Bellevue	0	C. M. A.	32
Bellevue	6	Litton	26
Bellevue	7	Goodlettsville	7

During the season there was much said of the team's improvement since last year, when most of the boys played for the first time. The untiring efforts and determination of coach Hackman should not be overlooked as a big reason for their success. The players that Bellevue loses by graduation are: Paul Smith, Gordon Allen, Paul Ashburn, Link O'Brien, Elton Boone, Charles Knott, J. B. Swafford and George Steele. Paul Smith was voted the most valuable player of the team.

REAR: PARKER - CARNEY - HALE - NELLUMS - SELLARS - SEXTON - BAIRD - Coach TORRENCE

With the excellent coaching of Mr. Joe Torrence, the Girls' basketball team was very successful this year. They lost only two games out of twelve for the entire year and in the tournament surprised everyone by winning over two seeded teams, Goodlettsville and Antioch. They beat Litton the first game and met DuPont, the top seeded team, in the finals. They lost this game by one point which was made in the last three seconds to play. Bellevue girls were awarded the Sportsmanship Ball, a well deserved honor. Eight seniors graduate from the team this year. They are Hazel Reasonover, Dorothy Maynard, Juanita Ray, Sara Sexton, Jewel Carney, Juanita Sullivan, Betty Baird, and our manager, Rena Parker. Out of these eight, five were regulars. All eight of these girls played together for four years. This class won the cup every year. Hazel Reasonover, our high scorer and captain, made the district tournament All-Star Team. This was the team's schedule for the year:

17	Bellevue	vs: Joelton	22
25	Bellevue	vs: Cumberland	26
53	Bellevue	vs: T. I. S.	16
28	Bellevue	vs: Hillsboro	18
